Hiring Team

Palantir
London, UK

Dear Hiring Manager,

Palantir's establishment of its European Defence Headquarters in London represents a significant escalation in the UK's ability to maintain a decisive technical advantage over sophisticated state adversaries. However, the integrity of these missions depends entirely on the Security Controllers who manage the facilities and personnel vetting behind the scenes. I am writing to apply for the Security Controller position, bringing a combat-hardened background in managing secure facilities and highly classified cryptographic materials under the most intense operational friction.

My tenure as a Tactical Team Leader and my service in the U.S. Marine Corps provided me with a granular understanding of the 'physical-to-digital' security bridge. I have directed missions requiring 100

I am particularly drawn to Palantir's mission because it rejects the 'shallow' security models of commercial tech in favor of active, high-integrity defense. My history in unconventional warfare has instilled a proactive 'adversary logic'—the ability to identify and neutralize perimeters vulnerabilities from the perspective of the attacker. I thrive in 'always-on' environments requiring a 60-minute response time, and I am prepared to apply my technical depth and leadership to support your most sensitive UK Intelligence and Defence deployments.

I am eager to discuss how my unique background in compartmented security and tactical leadership can serve as a force multiplier for Palantir's UK Security Command. I look forward to the opportunity for a briefing on your current security requirements and how I can support the resilience of your London-based operations. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Johnny Silverhand
